Chapter 1 by Cat4055

"Where's the principal in all this?" I asked, looking towards the door.

"She's... telling your new roommates about you." Bandit muttered, kind of backing his chair away.

"My new what?! Do you know how dangerous that is?! They could be killed by me!"

"Or protected. There's a reason people want to kill these girls. You could protect them, when the agents can't. Also, why did Leo call you Chief and why do you know the rules?"

"Because I was an orphan and had to get money somehow." I said as the door behind me opened and the Principal and two girls, both the same age as me, walked in. The two girls were probably identical twins, they both has long brown hair, blue eyes, and both wore the school uniform, which I hadn't bothered to get.

"So, how about you two girls show Laurel to your room and get to know each other." Bandit said, backing his chair into a corner and having a huge, fake, smile on his face.

"OK, there is a reason Bandit's scared right now. Am I supposed to know you guys?"

"Hey, Chief, I think I'll head out now. Go make sure my agents are all set up." Leo said, slinking away through the doorway.

I looked at the doorway he had left through. "Seriously, what's with you guys?" The girls shrugged, I got out of my chair and followed them. They walked down the hallway, how me the way. They left, and I followed.

"So, why do people want y

They looked back to me and the one of my left said, "Ever heard of the Bender?"

“Yeah, it’s a different name for Red Mage.” I said sarcastically, “You do know what I am, right?” The one on the right rolled her eyes, “It’s a super weapon. We created it. People want to capture us, not kill us, and get us to tell them how to create the weapons we’ve made. Not everything is about you.”

I laughed, “You actually believe that everything isn’t about me? Let me tell you a little secret. I’ve fought in the war, I’ve been in the front lines, I know what they’re fighting for. They’re fighting for Red Mages, well, their freedom anyway. I would just like to say, thank you for creating a super weapon on my behalf.”
